Retain 1955 cat. in 1956 file

Dear Garden Enthusiast,

For the spring of 1956 we will not be publishing or sending our usual spring garden book. We will still offer and have in stock, however, the same high quality of bulbs, flower seeds, vegetable seeds, grass seeds, and garden supplies that have been our trademark for over 65 years.

Since you are one of our many customers that are not near enough to shop at our garden store, we will offer you an added inducement to send in your order.

If you have your copy of last year's catalog please use that to select the items that you will need for your garden this spring and we will offer you a 10% discount on bulbs, flower seeds, vegetable seeds, and grass seeds if you send your order in with remittance enclosed prior to March 1, 1956. Since many of these prices have increased since the publication of our last catalog you are effecting a double saving by taking advantage of this discount.

Thank you for your past patronage and looking forward to serving you again, we are

Yours very truly,

ROSA MULTIFLORA - For a Living Fence

This wild Rose of Japan and Korea has been found to be wonderful as a dense hedge. Nurserymen use it as understock on which Roses are grafted, but it is also most useful for bordering woodland areas or drives or fence purposes. The small white flowers come in large trusses along stout arching canes, followed by red fruits relished by the birds. In its place this makes a fast-growing, impenetrable barrier, but it should be confined to places where it can be left to grow as it pleases. Plant 12 inches apart. We offer strong 1-year transplanted plants 12 inches high.
